Ladysmith, Wis., July 22.—The Mississippi Log and Boom company has evidently given up its fight to drive its 20,000,000 feet of logs through the Cameron dam against the protests of the fearless John F. Dietz. The company is now loading its logs on skids preparatory to hauling them around the famous dam next winter. True will end the great contest.

THIRTY-NINE KILLED ABOARD A WARSHIP

EXPLOSION OF BOILER CREATES TERRIBLE HAVOC ON GUN-BOAT BENNINGTON.

TWELVE MEN STILL MISSING

BELIEVED THAT THEY ARE LYING WEDGED IN THE WRECKAGE IN THE BOILERROOM.

SIXTY ARE BADLY INJURED

MANY OF THOSE HURT WILL PROBABLY DIE OF THE INJURIES RECEIVED.

San Diego, Cal., July 22.—Broken and blackened, with her flag flying at half mast, her hold filled with fifteen feet of water, the United States gunboat Bennington lies beached on the shores of San Diego harbor. Thirty-nine of her crew lie dead at city morgues, the fate of a dozen more is as yet undetermined and three score are stretched upon beds of pain in various hospitals. This is the result of the explosion which wrecked the trim little naval craft and wrought such terrible havoc among her crew at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning.

The placid waters of San Diego bay have never before been the scene of such a disaster and San Diego city has never before been stirred by such scenes of death and suffering as those witnessed Friday night. Twenty-one dead bodies lie ranged with gruesome precision at Davis & Anderson's morgue. The stark forms were outlined in immaculate winding sheets, the terrible results of scalding steam upon the faces plainly showing, though fully hidden beneath the folds. Thirteen victims were stretched upon improvised biers at Johnson & Connell's morgue, while five others were to be seen at Woolman & Bradley's. At the two latter places the work of the explosion was terribly in evidence. The face of every victim is scarred and scalded, in many cases almost beyond recognition.

Suffering From Scalded Bodies.

At Agnew hospital are many injured, suffering in almost every instance from scalded bodies. Several are expected to die before the night is over.

On board the Bennington the unharmed members of the crew are working under terrible difficulties to reach the boilerroom and coal bunkers, where it is believed a dozen bodies are lying wedged in the wreckage or submerged in the water which fills that part of the vessel.

The following is a list of the dead: F. W. Brown, John Newcomb, B. A. Hilger, A. Benzel, A. Kamerer, W. C. Perry, C. Rushing, A. H. Schrogg, C. R. Hagboom, R. Carr, S. F. Saunders, E. Dresch, M. G. Quinn, C. J. Kuntz, J. Hilschler, J. Brownlee, F. Geiss, Ensign N. K. Perry and twenty-one unidentified dead.

The total seriously injured number twenty-two, as follows: W. M. Fickwiler, J. Hunt, F. A. Ezel, W. B. Furgur, R. M. House, R. M. Saunders, Robinson, G. A. Tooley, F. W. Brown, J. M. McManey, J. Schultz, P. Carpenter, F. W. Schacklett, W. G. Clark, G. M. Chambers, G. R. Hallett, C. W. Eyler, D. R. McClintock, L. Archer, B. F. Peavey, R. M. Hoffman, J. C. Barchus, W. W. Worthen and one unknown man.

Vessel Was Lying in the Stream.

The Bennington at the time of the accident was lying in the stream off the Commercial wharf at the foot of H street. The warship had received orders from the navy department at Washington to sail Friday morning for Port Harford, where she was to meet the monitor Wyoming and convey that vessel to the Mare Island navyyard. Steam was up and everything was in readiness for sailing when suddenly and without any warning whatever, the starboard forward boiler exploded with a deafening roar. The explosion was terrific. People standing on the shore saw a huge cloud of white steam above the Bennington. Columns of water were buried in the air a distance of nearly twice the height of the spars of the vessel.

It was immediately apparent that a terrible disaster had happened on the Bennington. The ferryboat Romona was coming across the bay at the time and her captain immediately gave orders to change the course of the boat and hurried to the assistance of the stricken warship. The tug Santa Fe, which was tied up at the Commercial wharf, the launch McKinley, the government launch Derussey, and a large number of launches and water craft which were near the scene at the time also rushed to the assistance of the Bennington. By the time the Romona had arrived, many of the sailors of the Bennington who had jumped into the bay to escape the scalding steam had been rescued and the removal of the wounded, which had already begun, was being conducted in perfect order. Crews of the Santa Fe, Derussey, McKinley and the other boats lent yeoman aid in picking up the wounded sailors and transferring them to the shore.

At the time of the accident Commander Lucien Young and Surgeon F. E. Peck were on shore. The two officers, as soon as they learned of the disaster, hurried to the water front where Commander Young immediately took charge.

On board the Bennington were presented terrible sights. The force of the explosion had blown a great hole in the starboard side of the ship and the vessel was already commencing to list. A section of the upper deck was carried away from stem to stern. Debris and wreckage were distributed over the entire ship, the forward cabin and deck in the vicinity of the boiler resembled a charnel house. Over it all hung the cloud of white steam, which drifted slowly toward the Coronado shore.

The news of the explosion spread rapidly. At first some of the reports were that more than half the crew had been killed. This was later modified, the rumor having it that the dead would at least reach seventy-five.

Attended to the Wounded.

The arrival on the scene of hurrying ambulances, hacks and carriages of every description, which had been summoned, added to the excitement. Every physician who could be reached was hurried to the water front and within a comparatively short time nearly a dozen doctors were on the scene attending the wounded.

A dozen or fifteen persons were blown overboard by the force of the explosion. Captain Wentworth said he saw human bodies hurled more than fifteen feet upwards. The air was black with smoke that enveloped the ship. When it cleared away only a few men could be seen on the ship, while many were floundering in the water. A boat was lowered from the vessel's side and most of them were picked up. The shock of the explosion penetrated a considerable distance, parts of the boilers being found at the afterpart of the captain's cabin, while portions of the afterdeck was carried away.

Most of the dead and injured were taken ashore, where the undertakers and physicians were summoned to take charge of the dead and minister to the needs of the living. The bodies of the men killed in the interior of the ship were mutilated almost beyond recognition. The faces of many were covered with blood and gashes.

Commander Young as soon as he reached the ship, gave orders that the airtight compartments be closed to avoid further listing and sinking of the ship and that the magazines be flooded in order to avert further explosions.

Unable to Stand the Sight.

Temporary quarters ashore were arranged for the wounded and sixty citizens volunteered and hurried in launches to the relief of those on the ill-fated ship. Some of the rescuers were unable to stand the sickening sight that met their gaze on the Bennington.

As fast as possible the wounded were hurried in ambulances, automobiles, carriages, etc., to the hospitals. It was not until late in the afternoon that the last of the bodies was removed from the boilerroom. Some of the bodies were tightly wedged in by a bulkhead. The woodwork had to be hewn away to free them. Most of the bodies yet unidentified have been mangled almost beyond hope of recognition.

The boiler which exploded, it is said, was regarded as unsafe. Commander Young stated that during a recent return trip from Honolulu the pressure was kept reduced during the entire passage.

The engineer was inspecting the boiler preliminary to the vessel's departure. He was not seriously injured. Officers and men who escaped injury acted in a brave and cool manner. The pumps were manned, the magazines were flooded and the men groped their way through the smoke into the hold to search for their comrades. At the time of greatest danger, when it was thought the ship would sink, the young officers and men stuck to their posts manfully.

The ship's innerworks are a tangled mass of machinery and she will probably have to be dismantled in order to examine her injuries.

DISCUSS CHINA'S NOTE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND SECRETARY ROOT CONFER AT SAGAMORE HILL.

SUBJECT IS VERY IMPORTANT

NOTICE TO THE POWERS IS NOT SO SIMPLE AS IT AT FIRST APPEARED TO BE.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 22.—President Roosevelt and Elhu Root, who assumed formally last Wednesday his new duties as secretary of state, were in conference Friday night at Sagamore Hill. Among the many questions considered by them none is fraught with deeper significance and importance to the United States than is that relating to an identical note which the foreign office of China, within a day or two, has sent to the powers that are neutral in the far Eastern conflict between Russia and Japan.

The text of the note, which is undated, and was made public Friday evening by President Roosevelt, is as follows:

"Having viewed with profound regret the unfortunate interruption of peaceful negotiations between Japan and Russia, the imperial government now learns with sincere gratification that negotiations are about to commence for the restoration of peace and amity. But in the present conflict Chinese territory has been made the theater of military operations. Therefore it is hereby expressly declared that no provision affecting China being without the approval of China being previously obtained which the treaty of peace may contain will be recognized as valid. The diplomatic representatives of China and Japan and Russia have been instructed by telegraph to communicate this declaration to the governments of Japan and Russia respectively."

On its face the note appears to be a simple declaration that no determination of the peace conference affecting Chinese territory will be recognized as valid, "without the approval of China previously obtained." It really means far more than that, as it is construed here. The United States, in common with other nations, is interested particularly in the "open door" to Manchuria, and behind China's simple declaration lies the whole question of the commerce and the commercial relations of a great empire.

What action, if any, the United States government may take as to the note is beyond accurate conjecture at this time. Neither President Roosevelt nor Secretary Root will discuss the matter for publication.

Secretary Root will remain as a guest of the president until some time Saturday. Mr. Root may not take up the active duties of secretary of state before September.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL A WOMAN. Minneapolis Man Then Ends His Own Life With Poison.

Minneapolis, July 22.—In a spirit of revenge Gus Drexler shot two bullets into the body of Mrs. Frank Albrecht Friday morning at her home at 2908 Minnehaha avenue. Then, believing that the woman was dead or dying, he drank a quantity of carbolic acid, which almost immediately proved fatal.

Mrs. Albrecht was taken to St. Mary's hospital and at a late hour Friday night was still alive, but it is not believed she can recover.

Thursday Drexler had been released from the workhouse after serving a forty-day sentence under a charge of larceny, preferred against him by Mrs. Albrecht. Drexler shot the woman in revenge for having him imprisoned and because she would not give up his clothes, which she held for a board bill.

BRITT DEFEATS KID SULLIVAN.

San Francisco Fighter Still Retains His Title.

San Francisco, July 22.—Jimmy Britt is still the lightweight champion of the world. He was awarded the decision over Kid Sullivan Friday night in a twenty-round contest in which Britt was the bright and shining star. He outpointed Sullivan in nearly every round and, although he did not knock out the husky youngster from Washington, he demonstrated beyond all doubt his superiority. As the referee said, "It was a stake horse against a selling plater."

JOURNEY NEARLY ENDED.

Admiral Sigsbee's Fleet Reported Off the Virginia Coast.

Norfolk, Va., July 22.—The Cape Henry wireless station Friday night reported Admiral Sigsbee's fleet 200 miles out and it was announced that the fleet would not arrive until Saturday.

American Yacht Wins Race.

Dorval, Que., July 22.—The American yacht Manchester, the challenger for the Seawanhaka cup, defeated the Alexandra, the Canadian defender, in the second race of the series Friday. The Manchester's time was 2 minutes and 52 seconds better than the Alexandra's.

MISS THE SULTAN

BOMB THROWN AT TURKEY'S RULER KILLS OR INJURES HIS ATTENDANTS.

Brussels, July 22.—A telegram to the Petit Bleu from Constantinople says:

"During the Selamlik here Friday a bomb was exploded in the court of the mosque close to the sultan. His majesty was not injured, but several members of his suite were killed or injured. Several arrests have been made."

YOUNG GIRL CREMATED.

Burned to Death While Pinned Beneath an Automobile.

Indianapolis, July 22.—The burned body of fourteen-year-old Olive Johnson of Lima, O., and five other persons suffering from burns and bruises were dragged from beneath a burning automobile which plunged into a ditch on the river road about half a mile east of Broad Ripple, seven miles northeast of this city, Friday night, exploding the gasoline storage tank.

C. O. Dale of this city, who was driving the machine, is seriously burned. The others who sustained severe burns and bruises are:

Clara Brennan, Muncie, Ind.; Ethel Jones, Shelbyville, Ind.; Inez Brennan and Hazel Orr of Indianapolis.

The party was speeding along the river road leading east from Broad Ripple when the machine struck a rut. The forward wheels were sent into the ditch, overturning the machine and pitching the occupants underneath. From the tail lamp the gasoline was ignited and two explosions followed, throwing burning oil over the young people.

REPORTS OF BLACK RUST.

Send the Price of Wheat Up at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, July 22.—More positive and more widespread reports of black rust in the Minnesota and Dakota wheat fields gave September wheat a further boost of 6 cents Friday in the Minneapolis market. At 98 cents, the closing price of Friday, September had advanced 6 cents over the quotations of the day before, and 12½ cents from the price at the beginning of the week. December closed at 94½ cents, which was an advance of 4½ cents from the closing price of the previous day. Discouraging reports were received from many points in the course of the day.

In the interview published in this paper a few days ago with C. E. Bickler the gentleman objects to being misquoted and particularly to that part of it referring to the judges of the supreme court as men of "doubtful honesty"—as the question honesty or dishonesty was not touched upon in the interview—neither did he intend to convey the idea that all the judges were men of second rate ability.

The meeting held at Trades and Labor hall last night was for the purpose of organizing the Union Label League in this city. While the meeting was not very largely attended it showed very clearly who the people are in this city that are interested in unionism. The meeting was very enthusiastic and interesting for those who did attend. There will be another meeting called in the near future for the same purpose and it is sincerely hoped that all union men in this city will attend and bring their wives and assist in a cause that is right, just and loyal. Come out and be true to your colors and don't be ashamed that you are a union man and that your wife belongs to the Union Label League, or your children are wearing clothing bearing the union label.

FIRE DEPARTMENT EXHIBITION

The Department Made a Run and Gave an Exhibition on Fifth Street Last Night

The weekly drill and exhibition run in the Brainerd fire department, inaugurated by Chief A. H. Bennett some time ago, is proving both interesting and profitable. Last night the run was made down Fifth street and the hook and ladder boys were in it. They run the ladders up on the Gardner block and the hose company run the line of hose. Some very prompt and efficient work was done.

What's the secret of happy, vigorous health? Simply keeping the bowels, the stomach, the liver and kidneys strong and active. Burdock Blood Bitters does it.

A Street Scene, Bombay.

A man clad only in a yellow scarf and turban opens a mouth stained with the vivid vermilion of betel juice to show that the mango seed just swallowed has already become a small tree with green leaves pushing toward the light. A woman appears next upon the scene, bringing a crying baby in a closed hamper of bamboo. A dozen swords are instantly thrust through the interstices amid the ear piercing yells of the supposed victim, but as soon as the formidable blades are withdrawn the nine lived infant tumbles out of the basket and salaams to the assembled audience, holding out her tiny brown hand for the well deserved backsheesh.

As the fun waxed fast and furious sundry quarrels and recriminations between the rival magicians attract the attention of the native police, who, "dressed in a little brief authority," symbolized by red turban and blue tunic, soon disperse the performers, bag and baggage, hastening the enforced departure with unlimited kicks and thumps, submissively received.

Peter the Great and Lawyers.

In Russia during the reign of Peter the Great private litigants might have their suits prosecuted free of cost by lawyers paid by the state. The emperor, discovering that his subjects were being imposed upon by their legal agents, who contrived to delay trials until they had sucked their clients dry, enacted that sufficient solicitors and attorneys should be employed at handsome yearly salaries to officiate for the public in every matter of law. He ordered further that these men should insert in a register written up daily the dates of applications to them and should proceed with the suits in the order in which they were received without respect of persons. If they failed to do so, if they accepted any bribe or fee or if they were dilatory these lawyers were to be knouted and sent to Siberia.

The Surgeon's Nightmare.

Two patients who called in company upon a noted surgeon found him bemoaning a twinge of pain in his right forefinger. The callers smiled.

"Great Scott, doctor," exclaimed one, "you don't mean to say that a pain in the finger bothers a man so used to scenes of suffering as yourself?"

"It certainly does," the surgeon answered, with a worried look. "How do I know that it isn't the first symptom of blood poisoning? That is the nightmare of the surgeon. No matter how careful he may be, he is liable to contract poisoning in operating, and that kind of poisoning is of the most virulent type. Any time a surgeon is complaining about a pain in the hand sympathize with him, for he is doing some hard guessing."—Philadelphia Record.

A Birth Watch.

When a child is born in certain English towns there is a race for the health department, especially if the event has occurred in the poorer district. The reason for the haste is not a desire to see that the record of vital statistics is properly kept, but because there is a reward of a shilling to the one who is first to notify the health officer, provided this notification is given within forty-eight hours. As soon as the tip is received the mother is visited and given a printed slip with directions as to the best means of caring for the child, and the officer who makes the visit is expected to see that the directions are clearly understood.

Face Screen For Lepers.

In the leper colony of Audijan, Turkestan, there are a number of women who have become professional beggars. The sad creatures on whom the frightful disease has made visible marks use large fans made of leaves to shield their faces when they present their palms for coppers. The oddly shaped screens are large enough to entirely conceal the head, and if the hands, too, have begun to show signs of the disease pieces of linen are sometimes wound over them.

FUTURE OF BRAINERD

Rev. H. W. Knowles, Tells Duluth Herald Man of Conditions in This City and County

The following is taken from the Duluth Herald of Thursday: "Rev. Harry W. Knowles of Brainerd, formerly pastor of Grace Methodist church is in the city for a few days and will leave tomorrow for home. Mr. Knowles has been about renewing old acquaintances and enjoying himself quite well while in Duluth. He is here primarily to raise money for the mission work connected with his church in Brainerd and has met with very fair success. He says that over Brainerd-way if he had four preachers and four teams to direct he could keep them on the jump 365 days a year.

"The country there is filling in, he says, and homes are going up on the little clearings of the homesteaders, who are now getting down to farm work. Mr. Knowles said yesterday that while Brainerd has existed for years on the lumbering around that part of the country and the railway shops, the lumbering now are all gone and the force of men in the shops had been cut down tremendously.

"Heretofore," said Mr. Knowles, "the case has been such that a man could take a homestead, put his family on it and work in the town, or he could work with the lumber companies. He would not clear any more land than the law demanded and as a result when the lumbering ceased and the railway shops became of less importance, these homesteaders found that it is a case of root hog or die, and they are beginning to clear their land. The farming is thus becoming established and the clearings will grow a little larger each year until you will find in a very few years around Brainerd one of the most beautiful farming sections in the state. The land there is good for growing potatoes, vegetables of all sorts, small fruit, etc., and is exceptionally fine for oats. As to wheat, generally speaking, it is not so good but there is some of the swamp land which the state should drain that will grow fine wheat. Brainerd has found its sea-legs so to speak. Her growth from now on will be steady and healthy."

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest on my hands and knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Protests Against Upper Mississippi River Reservoirs Thought Not to be Well Taken

OVERFLOW RIGHTS BOUGHT

Land Reverted Back to Speculators and They Would Like See Scheme Abandoned

The publication of Major Derby's report on the Mississippi reservoirs serves to throw a great deal of light on a subject which has agitated Minnesota politicians of late, says the Minneapolis Journal.

In his report Major Derby says there is considerable local opposition to the dams along the upper Mississippi because a considerable acreage of land is overflowed. This land the government has the right to overflow, having received it legally and paid for it. But the land has passed into the hands of speculators, who would be glad to see the dams abandoned that the land might revert to them free of the incumbrance of the government's overflow rights.

On this point it is observable that no settler, actual or prospective, has been deceived. The government paid, in most cases over twenty years ago, for these overflow rights. Notice was served and lands were thereafter purchased with the knowledge that the flowage right existed. These rights were obtained in several ways—by act of the legislature as far as state lands were concerned, by agreement with the Indians as far as reservation lands were taken and by quitclaim deeds as far as private lands were concerned. For many years nothing was heard of the terrible wrong done to settlers by the dams. It was only when Minnesota lands rose considerably in value that the politicians of the state became interested and began exerting their pull for the purpose of abandoning the dams.

The Outlook For History.

History must be human, making its final appeal not as a monument of erudition, but as a masterpiece of art, in which the collective deeds and passions of men shall be not merely pictured with photographic accuracy, but vitalized and interpreted. Let us not suppose that this is a new aim. The great historians have always held it. The idea that Thucydides and Tacitus neglected to consult all the material available in their time is ludicrous. Gibbon knew his "sources" as profoundly as the impeccably correct Gardiner. Mommsen, we may be sure, had not, like Stubbs, a body of evidence which he dared not explore. The master historians in the future, by whatever method they may work, will prove themselves to be akin to these in insight, in power and in art.—W. R. Thayer in Atlantic.

BUCKMAN FIGHTS HARD

To Prevent the Closing of the United States Land Office at St. Cloud --Business Falling Off

A Washington dispatch says Representative Buckman is moving against a consolidation of Minnesota land offices that will leave St. Cloud out and close that office. He has called on Land Commissioner Richards for information as to the rumored consolidation. At the general land office it was said that whenever there is a consolidation of territory embracing public lands, it generally takes about a year before the official order is issued.

The closing of the United States land office at Marshall was resisted for more than one year by Representative McCleary, but it is never has been and never will be the policy of the department to continue a land office when business does not warrant it.

If this had been done and if senators and congressmen could have had their requests granted, there would still be land offices in New England and Ohio. The available lands of Minnesota, outside of swamp, timber and mineral lands, are becoming very scarce.

The coming opening next month, when filings will be made at Cass Lake and Duluth, covers pretty much all the available public lands for farming purposes. There is no intent to do Congressman Buckman an injury, as he seems to have intimated in recent interviews. He is a great worker in the interest of his St. Cloud constituents. But when there is not enough business to warrant keeping up the land office there it will be consolidated with the other three districts.

CAUSED A SENSATION

CHIEF OF THE MILWAUKEE FIRE DEPARTMENT INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGE.

AGAINST THIRTEEN OTHERS

GRAND JURY RETURNS BATCH OF TRUE BILLS ACCUSING THEM OF VARIOUS CRIMES.

Milwaukee, July 22.—Twenty-four true bills against fourteen individuals were returned Friday by the grand jury which has been investigating alleged grafting. This was the third batch of indictments handed down since the jury went into session on June 20, the grand total thus far numbering 129. Friday night's list contains several new names, the most important being Thomas A. Clancy, chief of the city fire department, who is indicted on one count, the charge being perjury. Some of the indictments were returned on the strength of testimony offered by August Puls, against whom several indictments were returned in the first two lists of true bills. Caplases were issued at night for the following indicted persons:

Thomas A. Clancy, chief of the Milwaukee fire department, one indictment.

William E. Hanrahan, secretary of the Milwaukee fire department, one indictment.

W. J. Caerper, captain of fire station No. 20, one indictment.

Herman W. Buemming, architect, one indictment.

Gustav A. Dick, architect, one indictment.

Herman Neldner, tile contractor, one indictment.

Frank Schultz, former newspaperman and at present tax assessor of Twenty-first ward, seven indictments.

Fred Schultz, newspaper reporter, two indictments.

A. V. Klefisch, former clerk, county board, two indictments.

Fred Hartung, former supervisor and present assemblyman, three indictments.

John G. Dittmar, former supervisor, one indictment.

Herman Haasch, former chairman county board, one indictment.

Max Reinholdt, former supervisor, one indictment.

W. J. O'Keefe, supervisor, one indictment.

The indictment of Chief Clancy caused a sensation. A fund was collected, it is said, to defeat a bill at the last legislature, requiring that members of the police and fire departments be given a hearing before charges can be made.

Clancy is charged with meeting with others of the fire department three days ago to agree upon testimony in case of being called before the grand jury. He is charged with testifying falsely before the jury. Clancy was the first to furnish bail.

Most of the indictments charge bribery in connection with county contracts or extortion.

EXCURSION BOAT BEACHED.

Threatened Repetition of Slocum Disaster Prevented.

New York, July 22.—The deliberate beaching of the crowded excursion boat Sirius Friday prevented a threatened repetition of the disaster to the excursion steamer General Slocum, which cost 1,000 lives thirteen months ago.

The excursion boat was in the waters about North Brother Island, where the General Slocum burned; a Sunday school picnic numbering 1,000 and composed mostly of women and children was aboard, and this picnic came from the same quarter of the city as the Slocum picnic.

In a strait near Brothers Island the Sirius was passing the steamer William G. Payne. While rolling in the trough of the Payne's swells the Sirius was dropped violently upon a hidden rock, which stove a hole through a steel plate into a bulkhead. Captain William M. Pearce at once headed the boat directly for the mud flats off Riker's island, nearly a mile away.

This abrupt change in the course spread alarm on the crowded passenger decks, but they were calmed by the crew.

Rescue parties followed fast in the wake of the excursion boat and when the steamer's bow settled in the mud police patrol boats and the steamer Massasoit were at hand and took off the frightened passengers.

At high tide the Sirius floated without assistance and although one bulkhead was full of water, proceeded under her own steam to the repair dock.

RISEN FROM

ITS RUINS

J. D. Vivian's New Carriage Repository is Completed and Stocked—Same Site as Former Establishment Which Burned Out Four Months Ago.

A good example of the rapidity with which Minneapolis business men recover from the effect of loss is shown in the case of J. D. Vivian, the big Hennepin avenue carriage dealer. Only four months ago fire ruined his building and almost entirely destroyed his large stock of vehicles and harness, and now he is back again in the same place with a rebuilt and remodeled building and an immense new stock.

As it is now, Mr. Vivian has a first-class, up-to-date carriage repository, with any kind of a vehicle in stock the human mind could wish for—everything from a runabout to a brougham. In addition to vehicles, he carries a complete line of harness and all accessories.

Speaking to a Tribune reporter yesterday, Mr. Vivian said: "I have great faith in Minneapolis and in the northwest. I have been in business here a long time, and every year's business has shown a handsome increase over the preceding one. Of course my loss by fire retarded things a little, but I opened temporary quarters and my friends hunted me up. In rebuilding here I have made a number of changes in the arrangement of the interior for the sake of convenience, and in selecting my new stock I have bought with particular reference to quality. There is nothing in the building I can't back up with my own personal guarantee, or that I wouldn't just as soon use for myself. Everything being new, is necessarily up to date. The entire stock is true blue, pure gold and clean as a whistle."

Mr. Vivian extends a most cordial invitation to anyone interested in fine vehicles to call and inspect his stock. If you anticipate purchasing, he will be more than pleased to quote prices. Don't forget the name and number, J. D. VIVIAN, 731-733 Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

A Proper Distinction.

Here is a story of John Fiske which illustrates his frankness:

It seems that one day his wife had to report to him that their son had been guilty of calling Mrs. Jones, a neighbor, a fool and Mr. Jones a much worse fool.

Professor Fiske sent for the youngster and when he appeared in the library said to him sternly, "My son, is it true that you said Mrs. Jones was a fool?"

Hanging his head, the boy replied, "Yes, father, I did."

"And did you call Mr. Jones a worse fool?"

"Yes, father."

"After a moment's reflection the famous historian said slowly, "Well, my son, that is just about the distinction I should make."—Boston Record.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

OFFICIALS WERE APPALLED.

Accident on the Bennington the Worst in Many Years.

Washington, July 22.—Officials of the navy department and naval officers on duty in Washington were appalled when the news came from San Diego telling of the disaster which overcame the gunboat Bennington.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling and Admiral Potter, acting chief of the bureau of navigation, held a conference with the result that an order was sent forthwith to the commandant of the navyyard at Mare Island to send Captain Drake, captain of the yards, and such medical officers as were available to San Diego as quickly as possible, a telegram announcing this action being immediately sent to Commander Young, President Roosevelt was immediately notified of the calamity. As Rear Admiral Goodrich, the commander-in-chief of the Pacific station, is cruising in Alaskan waters, he is so far from the scene of the explosion as to preclude the possibility of sending of the ships of his squadron to San Diego. The supply ship Iris and a tugboat were ordered to proceed Friday night from San Francisco to San Diego.

Lieutenant Commander Wilson of the bureau of navigation, who has charge of the enlisted men of the navy, immediately set about a roster of the crew. An order had recently been sent to the Mare Island yard to have a detail of twenty-seven men sent from that station to the Bennington. The department learned that this detachment had arrived at San Diego on July 18 and had gone on board the Bennington. The Bennington was under orders for Panama, where she was to relieve the Princeton and was to have sailed direct from San Diego to the Isthmus, but a report was received at the department announcing that the Wyoming had disabled a propeller blade and orders had been sent the Bennington to proceed to Hartford and take the Wyoming to San Francisco.

Not since the ill-fated battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor has the department been obliged to record a disaster to one of the American men-of-war so fearful as that on the Bennington. Engineer officers do not recall when a boiler has exploded aboard a warship of the United States. Mishaps have occurred in the boilerroom, but with slight loss of life or injuries, but they were unprepared to hear of an explosion of such magnitude. An investigation will be made.

WITH THE IMMORTALS.

Creatures That Seem Never to Die From Old Age.

Wandering unconcernedly in the field of view of any high power microscope there may be seen an animal which has probably been living continuously ever since life first appeared on the earth and which has certainly never lost an ancestor by death. The creature is transparent and resembles a drop of slightly more viscous fluid in the thin film of water in which it is confined. Amoeba is the name by which it is known to science. Splash a drop of ink on paper, and you will have an idea of its form at any one moment, but it's form is never the same. Even as you watch it its shape, which had a resemblance to Ireland as it appears on the map, changes. The headlands at the southwest corner are becoming more and more prominent till now they are like the fingers of an outstretched hand of which the palm is rapidly shrinking. The whole creature is flowing rather than creeping toward a small chain of bacteria, which presently it devours. There is no mouth through which they pass. They are simply engulfed as small drops of water may be merged into a larger. In an hour or two they will have been digested—burned off as fuel to supply the activities of their destroyer.

Occasionally amid its ceaseless changes of form amoeba may be seen to be developing a "waist," which grows smaller and narrower until it snaps, and instead of one large animal we have two small ones, which, without even a momentary pause, continue the search for food till, in a few hours, each is full sized and ready to divide again.

But what has become of the original amoeba? In the absence of anything which could be called his corpse we cannot declare him dead. It must be said that he is still living as the two new amoebae. Now, this splitting into two being the only mode of reproduction of the race, it follows that all the previous parent amoebae from which our present two are descended are still living. Of course thousands of the animalcules are destroyed every day by natural foes, but it must be remembered that these unfortunate cannot by the nature of things leave any children and so will never be ancestors, and that so long as any one amoeba is living none of his direct ancestry is dead.

The conclusion has forced itself upon biologists that death is no part of the life scheme of these humble creatures. They are not like us—machines, preordained to run down in a more or less certain period of years—but they live on indefinitely till some chance accident cuts short their career. Youth, or, rather, immaturity, they experience from time to time, but old age never!—Grand Magazine.

SITUATION IS VERY FAVORABLE.

Trade and Industry Active for This Season of the Year.

New York, July 22.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade says a widespread hot wave has retarded distributive trade and interfered with manufacturing industry, but has stimulated crop growth and thereby strengthened the outlook for fall trade. Retail trade in summer goods has been benefitted by the heat, as has also summer resort business. Wholesale and jobbing trade is of good volume considering the weather and compares well with a year ago. Confidence in fall trade is unimpaired and there is a more liberal tendency in placing fall orders. More activity in pig iron has led to a stronger tone and higher prices for that product in leading markets. The quieting in industry is merely of a temporary character. Manufacturing is really more active than usual at this time, and summer shutdowns are not such a feature this year as in former periods. Money has been remarkably easy for this season of the year, considering the nearness of crop moving requirements. Railway earnings are favorable, those for the first half of July showing 7 per cent gain on 1904. The industrial situation is on the whole very favorable, labor being well employed and especially scarce in the South.

MISS WEIDEMAN TESTIFIES.

Says She Saw Dr. Koch in His Office the Night of the Murder.

Mankato, Minn., July 22.—Miss Leza Weideman, testifying in the Koch trial Friday, not only repeated her former statement that from a porch she saw Dr. Koch in his office between 9 and 9:30 o'clock the night of the Gebhardt murder, but also said he stopped, reached out and with his right hand made a motion as if to put something in his pocket. The latter assertion was not made by her at the second trial. The state would show that Koch placed in his pocket the hammer that killed Gebhardt. Several witnesses repeated the testimony they gave at the former trials.

"HERBES O' VERTUE."

Rosemary and Rue Held High Estate Among the Ancients.

Of high rank among the ancient and mediaeval "herbes o' vertue" was rue. This plant, "the herb of grace," probably gained its reputation for breaking the spells of witchcraft, because it was so often employed for sprinkling holy water. Spenser includes this herb in the ingredients of a charm by which the aged nurse endeavored to change the current of Britomart's thoughts when she fell in love with the image of Sir Artegal in a magic mirror. Another favorite amulet was vervain, the holy herb, which was much used in ancient religious rites and subsequently for decorating the altars of churches. Roman heralds always crowned their heads with vervain when they either declared war or made a truce.

Rosemary was valued for its powers of strengthening a weak memory; hence it became the symbol of remembrance. Rosemary was also used as a love charm, the reason being "both Venus, the love goddess, and rosemary, or sea dew, were offspring of the sea, and therefore as love was beauty's son rosemary was love's nearest relative." Anne of Cleves wore sprays of rosemary at her marriage with Henry VIII, as this flower was then used by brides instead of orange blossoms, and wedding guests wore it instead of white favors. Rosemary was also closely associated with funerals, the mourners each carrying a spray to drop into the grave at the conclusion of the service.

Powdered rosemary applied to the face was supposed to have magical effects for restoring faded beauty, and a bath of rosemary taken three times a day was said to restore youth and vigor. In the language of flowers rosemary signifies fidelity in love. Shakespeare referred to this when he made the old nurse ask, "Do not rosemary and Romeo—begin both with a letter"—that is, with the same letter.—Chicago News.
